

Business - R H Irving Industrials

"R H Irving Industrials work force carries out every day duties in possibly one of the most dangerous environments in the UK on key Utility sites. The Directors felt that Peel Psychological Consultancy demonstrated on the first meeting that they were best qualified to lead the management and work force nationally through the "Peel Trauma Programme".

From the outset, the Peel Team's approach was inspiring, confident and professional, taking on board feedback and making changes to the various modules to ensure the training was bespoke to our specific Utilities based environment.

The modules have been a great success and interaction with key management was vital from the start. Peel excelled at the challenge and delivered with a confidence that has inspired the R H Irving Directors to roll this training out through senior site operatives nationally in 2013.

The further into the various modules Peel takes you, the more we realised this training had a benefit to our profile along with additional reassurance to our employees that the companies responsive and empathic approach would come into the work place when required."
